

Cloud implementation strategy workshop

Create a roadmap of activities for transformation to the cloud with measurable outcomes

Benefits

- Unify your organization's IT direction and understand future needs
- Develop a clear strategy and ensure clear communications across business and IT
- Define and implement your transformation plan with minimal business disruption
- Address IT organizational changes and reduce attrition risks

In the current environment of increased budget cuts, agencies are being challenged to reduce IT spending, while also remaining responsive and agile. As enterprises compete in the digital economy, their customers, employees and partners are placing greater demands on IT for speed and responsiveness—affecting both service development and operations. Many CIOs are already moving toward cloud-based environments to speed up development and improve end-user satisfaction.

However, the resulting hybrid cloud environment, which spans traditional IT infrastructure and cloud services, is creating many challenges for IT organizations. New skills and tools are needed, along with a structured approach to deciding where to host applications. The future IT services landscape will be characterized by multiple suppliers, with IT serving as an internal broker of computing resources. IT organizations will no longer focus on just technology adoption and management—they will need to adapt processes and governance to focus on providing IT services that support ongoing transformation.

Transform to a new way of doing business

The Perspecta cloud implementation strategy workshop is an interactive experience, tailored to and driven by your business and cloud agenda. It will help you understand why cloud is a new way of doing business technology; it can enable your business vision, develop clarity and consensus by identifying the cloud initiatives that support your business agenda and developing a plan of action for your journey forward.

How it works

Using highly informative and engaging visual panels to drive interaction in the workshop, senior Perspecta consultants share their experience and expertise to create an experience that fosters an open and frank conversation about how you can best leverage cloud, based on your specific circumstances. The workshop can help your organization choose and implement the best plan for transforming your applications, infrastructure and operating model to compete in the digital economy.

Why Perspecta

Perspecta brings together an unmatched portfolio and professional services experts to guide you through your cloud journey. Organizations need to understand the potential benefits of cloud, how to exploit it quickly for business results, and exactly where to start to get there.

Perspecta offers a full range of innovative professional services, practical customer experience, deep knowledge of both public and private cloud and partner technology, plus security, data center and big data capabilities.

Transformation is a journey

What's in it for you

The workshop will provide you with an excellent foundation to build the transformation for your organization and help you:

- Unify your organization's IT direction and understand future needs: Starting with an overall vision of the transformation journey will allow you to make informed decisions on the actions required and the timeframe in which to take them
- Develop a clear strategy and ensure clear communications across business and IT: Maintaining a clear focus for how you will achieve the end goal will ensure that all parts of the organization are working together
- Define and implement your transformation plan with minimal business disruption: Establishing a common understanding of the business context and a common conceptual framework documented along with prioritized actions, outcomes and issues will minimize disruption

- Address IT organizational changes and reduce attrition risks: Change is hard and often causes unforeseen friction across the organization. Understanding how the organization needs to change early in the transformation process allows the organization to adjust in a meaningful manner. Early communications of those changes will aid in gaining employee buy-in and support

Next steps from the customer's point of view
